Airliner Carries
32 To Death In Singapore Crash

SINGAPORE (AP)—A BOAC Constellation Airliner crashed and burst into flames on landing at Kallang Airport today, killing 32 of the 40 persons aboard.

BOAC officials said two Americans and one Canadian were among the passengers.

The Singapore Standard said the Americans were believed to be vice president Grant F. Olson, of the W. A. Shaeffer Pen Co., and Michael Shatin, Far East supervisor of Warner Brothers.

Skids On Runway

The plane, bound from Australia to London had been flying in a clear sky. On landing, it skidded, tore up the runway for about 20 yards, swerved to the right, then somersaulted on the grass about 100 feet away.

Eight crewmen reported survived the crash and were hospitalized but released after treatment.

The big four-engine plane, operated by a British Commonwealth company, was coming in from Jakarta, Indonesia, where it had stopped over on its regularly scheduled flight from Sydney, Australia, to London.

It crashed at the end of the runway after skimming over rooftops on a normal approach for the landing. Flames enveloped the plane and roared out of control for more

Three Michigan
Prisons Jammed

LANSING (AP)—Corrections director Gus Harrison and the wardens of the state's three prisons are looking for ways to fit more prisoners into existing space.

The total prisoner count is at the 9,200-mark, Harrison reported. This is still below the record high which was reached just before the April, 1952, riots at Southern Michigan Prison.

Staffs of Southern Michigan Prison and Marquette Branch Prison are to study possibilities of finding more housing space, short of crowding beds into halls as was done before the riots.

The situation will be relieved slightly this spring when a new conservation-prison camp near Grayling opens to provide space for 75 more men.

Nixon To Defend Policies
Of White House TonightMigs Attack 2
U. S. Planes Near German Border

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Two American Navy carrier-based planes were attacked by a Communist MIG near the Czech-German border Friday. Czechoslovakia charged immediately that they had flown over its vital uranium-producing center at Jachymov, 35 miles inside the Iron Curtain and fired the first shot.

Both Back Safely

The Navy said one of the two American propeller-driven planes was damaged but both pilots managed to bring their aircraft safely down at Neuburg airbases in the American zone of Germany near Munich.

A Navy spokesman in London said an investigation into the shootings was ordered by the U. S. Sixth Fleet. He said first reports showed empty aviation ammunition cartridges were found on German soil after the attack. One American spokesman in Munich said, however, the planes had "inadvertently" crossed into Czech territory. Clouds covered much of the frontier area over which they were flying.

Reds Lodge Protest

Bavarian police were the first to report the incident and it was hours before Army, Navy or Air Force came out with an official confirmation of the shooting.

Before they did, the Red government of Czechoslovakia already had announced over the Prague Radio that it had lodged a formal note of protest with the U. S. Embassy charging the planes had entered its territory at Domazlice in the early afternoon and flew as far east as Jachymov—one of the Soviet world's most important producers of atomic energy raw materials.

French Rout Rebels
Who Cut Off Supply
Route In Indochina

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—French Union troops backed by tanks and a mighty artillery barrage, today routed Vietminh troops blocking France's vital North Indochina supply line.

Sweeping into the heart of the Red River delta Friday night, the rebels blasted five gaps in the mainline railway linking Hanoi with the coast. They also blew up bridges and captured, burned and destroyed many watchtowers and small forts along the route.

The 64-mile railway and road paralleling it are the pipeline for most of the U. S.-supplied war equipment entering Haiphong by ship.

The French said the coordinated Vietminh attacks appeared to have been an all-out attempt to smash the supply line.

Fighting spread almost to the outskirts of Hanoi, with fierce clashes between French Union troops and the Vietminh's hard-fighting regiment 42 just eight miles from the city in the village of Nhu Quynh.

The Vietminh moved into Nhu Quynh after blowing up a long stretch of railway track. For a time they also threatened to cut the highway, over which about 6,000 French supply trucks move each day.

Can't Trust Reds,
Gruenther Says

OMAHA (AP)—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, supreme Allied commander in Europe, says Friday's attack on two U. S. planes by a Soviet-type aircraft near the German border gives new evidence of Russian hostility to the free world.

Gruenther, a native Nebraskan, spoke Friday night in connection with Omaha's centennial observance.

A Soviet propaganda campaign "to show there is no danger," he said, was belied by the attack.

"There is no new look by Molotov," Gruenther said, adding it would be a "tragic error" for Western Allies to relax their vigilance during a "long period of uneasy truce."

The NATO commander cited long range strategic air power as a very strong deterrent to aggression.

He spoke of the "growing number" of B47 jet medium bombers in the United Kingdom and in Africa. These craft, Gruenther said, fly so high and so fast "there is no defense by the Russians against them at this time."

Airlines To Penalize Canceled Customers
WASHINGTON (AP)—The airlines have decided to penalize customers who cancel air-coach reservations less than three hours before the scheduled departure time, or who fail to show up at all.

The penalty consists of 20 per cent of the value of the unused air coach ticket, with a minimum charge of $5.

Plan Of Democrats
For Tax Cut Called
An Expensive Phony

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) today characterized as "an expensive phony" a plan of Sen. George (D-Ga) to cut individual income taxes by sharply raising exemptions for each taxpayer and his dependents.

Flanders made the remark in an interview as Republicans in both the Senate and House sought to tighten their lines against the Democratic drive to raise the exemptions.

Not Much Relief

The Vermont senator, who serves on the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee, said the George proposal would mean only "peanuts" to low-income taxpayers.

For instance, he said, the benefit would be only 80 cents a week to an individual in the low wage bracket with no dependents.

But George's plan would be expensive to the government, he said, costing 4½ billion dollars in revenue this year, and about eight billion in succeeding years.

The veteran southerner, who is senior Democrat on the finance committee, proposes to boost the exemptions from the present $600 to $800 this year, and to $1,000 for 1955 and thereafter.

Tonic For Business

George contends the exemptions are inadequate, pointing out they have not been raised since 1948. And he says the tax cut would counteract the present business downturn by increasing mass purchasing power.

Meanwhile, it seemed clear the administration's tax strategy on Capitol Hill would be to let 912 million dollars of excise tax cuts voted by the House Wednesday slide through the Senate without a serious fight, and to concentrate on beating the income tax exemption increases.

Seattle Bandits
Shoot 3 Officers
In Fast Getaway

SEATTLE (AP)—Three bank robbers who shot their way through a police trio, killing one and wounding two others, were the objects of a virtually clueless search throughout the Pacific Northwest today.

The policemen never fired a shot Friday morning as they were cut down by the three men who had just finished robbing the Greenwood Bank of $97,700—$90,800 of which they dropped in their getaway.

False Noses Worn

The bandits, wearing horn-rimmed spectacles and false noses which some bystanders first thought were part of a joke, entered the bank at 10:40 a.m.

An employee pressed a concealed alarm bar with his foot and three policemen in one-man patrol cars responded—their sirens screaming as they neared the bank.

"George, somebody's sounded the alarm," one bandit shouted as he ran toward the front lobby. Police Sgt. Howard Slessman, shotgun at his side, was running through the outer door. The bandit fired and Slessman fell, a bullet wound in his neck.

Automobile Abandoned

As Slessman fell, Patrolman Frank W. Hardy, 30, arrived and jumped from his car, running toward the parking lot on the east side of the bank. A second bandit fired through a window, hitting Hardy in the head. He dropped to the sidewalk, mortally wounded.

The third officer, Vernon R. Chase, arrived just as two of the gunmen broke through a side door. One fired quickly and Chase was down a few feet from Hardy, a bullet wound in the chest.

The third kicked out a plate glass window and jumped through. He dropped a sack containing $90,800 as he fled.

The robbers' getaway automobile was found later, a few miles away, its motor still warm and a .45 caliber bullet on the front seat. No further clues of real import have been uncovered.

Wounded Michigan
Congressman Listed
As Holding His Own

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Alvin Bentley was reported as "holding his own" late Friday against wounds he received March 1 in the House of Representatives shooting.

His doctor, Dr. Joseph R. Young, predicted that the Michigan Republican would recover.

Earlier Young said that the 35-year-old congressman was having some difficulty breathing when gas pressed against the diaphragm.

Dr. W. Leroy Dunn, a Washington chest specialist, was called in Friday to examine Bentley's chest and removed considerable fluid, Dr. Young said. He added:

"He is holding his own now and there was a slight improvement. It looks like he's going to make it."

Family Fight
Rages Within
Ranks Of GOPBy JACK BELL
& G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Nixon states the case for the Republican administration tonight in a radio-television address while a family fight rages within the GOP over Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and some of his investigative aides.

Friday McCarthy bitterly protested Army Department officials had attempted to "blackmail" his investigations subcommittee into dropping a probe of the Army. He made public a document that represented Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens as trying to divert the group's attention to a search for wrongdoing in the Navy, Air Force and Defense Department.

Branded Fantastic

Stevens and John G. Adams, the Army's general counsel retorted that such accusations were untrue. McCarthy had said Adams told him several months ago a report embarrassing to the subcommittee would be made public unless an investigation of the Army were called off.

Adams labeled the blackmail charge "fantastic and false," and Stevens likewise used "fantastic" to describe the idea that he would "do other than uphold the hand of the Army, the Navy, the Air Force and the Defense Department."

Before the day was over some Republicans as well as Democrats in the Senate were demanding investigations to determine who is telling the truth in the crossfire of accusations.

Peace Shattered

Nixon had been designated last Monday to deliver the party's reply to criticism by Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee. One of Stevenson's thrusts was a description of the GOP as "half McCarthy and half Eisenhower."

President Eisenhower had backed Stevens when, after an earlier row with McCarthy, the secretary said he would protest Army witnesses against any "abuse" at the hands of investigating committees.

The explosion that again shattered the peace between Stevens and McCarthy came when Senate sources Friday made public an Army report saying efforts were made to get special treatment for G. David Schine, an unpaid con-

Auto Dealers
Hope To Curb
Car Bootlegging

WASHINGTON (AP)—The auto trade hopes for a Justice Department opinion within three weeks on a plan to curb the "bootlegging" of new cars and cut prices, the National Automobile Dealers Association (NADA) reported.

Frederick J. Bell, NADA executive vice president, Friday said discussions are in progress with anti-trust division officials. They plan a proposal to write an anti-bootlegging guarantee into auto manufacturers' contracts with their dealers.

Practice Spreads

Because the bootleg practice is "spreading," Bell told a reporter, the industry is anxious for an early statement on whether such contract terms would be given anti-trust clearance.

"We don't want a weaseling opinion from justice," he added. "We want a definite statement."

"Bootlegging" has increased as new car sales declined and competition grew more intense. Some dealers who have had difficulty selling the quota of cars assigned them by manufacturers have unloaded them through other outlets as "used cars" at substantially lower prices.

Worse Than Ever

"A certain amount of bootlegging always has existed, usually at the end of the year when dealers want to clear their floors for new models," Bell said.

"But it has never before been on such a wholesale scale. Bell said he has conferred with the manufacturers in Detroit, as well as with the Justice Department, since NADA's board of directors instructed him in January to press for remedial action.

President Works
On Tax Address

Thurmont, Md. (AP)—President Eisenhower rested today at his Catoctin Mountain lodge and planned some work on the tax address he will make to the nation over television and radio Monday night.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower arrived Friday afternoon at Camp David, presidential retreat near their grandson.

The President still hoped to get in a round of golf today but the weather on his arrival dimmed the prospects.

The Catoctin Mountains were covered with a light snow which fell Thursday, and the greens on the golf course where Eisenhower usually plays in this area were crusted with ice.

Secret Weapon
Papers Missing
At Atomic Plant

WASHINGTON (AP)—Substantial quantities of secret documents, related possibly to hydrogen bomb production, reportedly are missing from the government's huge 400,000-acre atomic plant at Hanford, Wash.

Rep. Pelly (R-Wash) told newsmen Friday the Atomic Energy Commission has confirmed informally that certain papers have vanished. Pelly, who said he first heard reports of this late last year, added that AEC did not tell him the nature of the missing classified material, but that he took it for granted it was "top secret."

Pelly said he had no indication the data was stolen by spies, but he asked for an investigation by the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee because, he said, "even if it's a matter of poor housekeeping it's a shocking situation."

The congressman reported Chairman W. Sterling Cole (R-NY) of the atomic committee has agreed to look into the situation and that an investigator probably will be sent to Hanford shortly.

An AEC spokesman said the commission would have nothing to say for the time being. At Hanford itself, there was no immediate comment. The project, which lies near the Columbia River, employs 18,500 workers.

The project's main mission is production of plutonium—a fissionable material—for atomic bombs.

State TB Costs
May Be Trimmed

LANSING (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee will make a second attempt this year to cut the cost of hospitalizing tuberculosis patients who are state charges.

The committee recommended that so-called "state-at-large" TB patients be treated in state hospitals as long as there are vacant beds in the state institutions. The House defeated this program in 1953.

"State-at-large" patients are those whose care cannot be assessed to any county.

Sen. Elmer R. Porter (R-Bliss), the Senate committee chairman, said the cost of subsidizing these patients could be reduced $730,000 a year if the patients were placed in state hospitals.

Filing $15,059,542 public health appropriation bill, the committee held state subsidies for county TB patients to $6 million, the same as last year, and $1 million less than Gov. Williams requested.

The bill appropriates $1,323,215 for the state sanatorium at Howell, $497,305 for the new Southwestern Michigan Hospital at Kalamazoo, $3,000 to close down Pinecrest Sanatorium, $480,952 for the North-ern Michigan Sanatorium at Gaylord and $304,892 for the Copper County Sanatorium at Hancock.

Mayor Tackles
Wildcat Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner has called for meetings today with waterfront labor leaders and employers in hope of ending a wildcat strike costing the shipping industry an estimated million dollars a day.

The mayor intervened in the now nine-day-old pier strike after city business leaders Friday told him New York's economy would be seriously hurt if the walkout continued.

Wagner said 5,000 businesses have already been affected and soon may begin to lay off workers. Importers told him that millions of dollars worth of fruit and vegetables will spoil on ships stranded in the port.

The Commerce and Industry Assn. reported thousands of tons of shipping have been diverted to other ports and predicted at least 10 per cent of this business would never return to New York.

Dock workers stayed off their jobs in defiance of a federal court order against striking. The International Longshoremen's Assn., independent, termed the strike unauthorized and said it tried without success to get the men back to work.

Funds Asked To Wind Up Security Purge

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration is seeking more manpower to finish the job of investigating possible security risks among federal workers.

President Eisenhower asked Congress Friday to approve transfer of $1,150,000 in State, Justice and Treasury Department funds to permit completion of this task by June 30.

Fr. John Hughes Is Transferred

Rev. Fr. John G. Hughes, organizer of the American Martyrs parish in Breitung and its pastor for the past 15 years, has been assigned as pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., it was announced this morning in an official diocesan appointment by Bishop Thomas L. Noa, of Marquette.

Father Hughes, who begins his official duties at St. Mary's on Tuesday, March 23, succeeds the Rev. Fr. Joseph Edward Guertin, who died March 4 in War Memorial hospital, Sault Ste. Marie. St. Mary's is the largest Catholic church in the Soo district.

Father Hughes was assigned here in 1939, when the need for a church to serve the Catholic people of Breitung became evident. One year after Father Hughes' arrival here the new American Martyrs church was constructed at Sagola and Newton streets.

Bill Grade School
Additional improvements, under the direction of Father Hughes, took place in 1942 and in 1943, when a convent and a rectory were built.

Highlight of his 15 years of pastorate at the American Martyrs church for Father Hughes was the construction of the new $135,000 parochial grade school on property adjacent to the church.

Father Hughes was born Dec. 2, 1908, at Escanaba. He attended the public schools there and was graduated from Escanaba High school. He enrolled at St. Mary's College, in Kansas, in 1926, and five years later, in 1931, transferred to Kenrick Seminary, St. Louis, Mo. He was ordained a priest on June 8, 1935, at St. Peter's Cathedral in Marquette by Bishop Nussbaum.

First Assignment
His first assignment after ordination was as assistant pastor at St. Ambrose church in Ironwood. He served there from 1935 to 1937, when he was appointed to serve at St. Peter's Cathedral in Marquette. Two years later, 1939, he came to Breitung to serve as head pastor. Father Hughes has been the only pastor at the American Martyrs church.

In his new assignment, Father Hughes will be going to a church, that until 1866, was the cathedral for the Diocese of Marquette. It was in 1866 that Bishop Baraga transferred the diocesan headquarters to Marquette.

There has been no announcement as to Father Hughes' successor.

Storm Clogs Roads; Bay Ice Moves Out With Nets

Wind and snow whipping out of the north last night broke up bay ice and possibly carried away commercial fish nets valued at several thousand dollars, clogged roads with some of the worst drifts of the winter, and delayed air and highway transportation.

The 30-mile-an-hour wind took bay ice out as far north in Little Bay de Noc as Breezy Point, some three miles south of Escanaba.

Three pound nets set for smelt were tripped when the ice moved out, but others may have been dragged and damaged by the moving ice. A number of gill nets were also lost.

Pound Nets Lost
Each pound net is valued at approximately $2,000. Believed to have been carried away were two pound nets owned by Phil Martin of Gladstone, and one pound owned by George Johnson of Gladstone.

Pound nets that tripped were owned by Ed Anderson, Earl Williams and Roy Jensen of Escanaba.

Later reports this morning indicated that the loss to fishermen will be greater than was at first thought.

Wilmer Larson of Stonington advised Jensen that the ice had moved out of Little Bay de Noc to a point on the shore near the Stonington Town Hall. This would enlarge the ice area that broke away and increase the possibility that many nets set on the "East Bank" of Little Bay were lost.

County Roads Drifted
Fishermen would be unable to determine the extent of their loss until the storm abates, since they cannot venture out on the ice while there is danger of being carried away on a floe.

Jensen said that commercial fishing will continue on the ice remaining in Little Bay de Noc so long as conditions will permit. Cracks have been opening in the remaining ice, however, and operations will be hazardous.

Delta County Road Commission plows were all out today and trucklines and main county roads were being kept open. Plowing will continue as long as the storm lasts, with the possibility that some side roads will be plugged and may not be opened until tonight.

May Clear Today
Today's storm, up to 10 o'clock this morning brought an estimated fall of four inches of snow in the Escanaba area. The storm is expected to clear up before nightfall however, and it is not likely that the usual aftermath of cold weather will prevail at this time.

The temperature early this morning was 18. At ten it had risen to 19 and an expected drop to 15 is probable tonight. Snow is again predicted for tomorrow, but no storm is indicated, says S. E. Decker of the Escanaba weather bureau.

Elsewhere in the Upper Peninsula weather conditions are reported to be practically the same as here.

Blizzard In Dakotas
The general weather picture is rated as the most intense storm of the winter with blizzards raging in central Nebraska and South Dakota, and dust storms, the worst since 1932, in Kansas and Oklahoma. A fall of 15 inches is reported all the way from Valentine, Neb. to Huron, S. D.

The storm was not unexpected, but it had been looked for about Monday. It was raging in Montana and Wyoming yesterday and was heading east, but when it reached the area near the Mississippi river it gained momentum and caught this area by surprise.

Central Wisconsin is harder hit than here with Wausau reporting 8 inches. The Park Falls, Wis., weather station reported 11 inches.

In sharp contrast to snow and cold, Atlanta, Ga., reports a record hot spell. Yesterday's high there was 82.

Briefly Told
Bitten By Dog—James Bohan, 309 S. 11th St., reported to Escanaba police that his daughter, Hellen, 7, was bitten by a dog owned by Gust Anderson, 401 S. 10th St. The owner will be ordered to keep the animal confined for 10 days for rabies observation.

Motorists Ticketed—Escanaba police have issued traffic violation tickets to the following motorists: Mrs. Wilfred Casey, Wells, failure to yield right of way and no operator's license on person; Milton Brunette, Green Bay, disobeying traffic signal; Louise Feak, Escanaba Rte. 1, driving car over fire hose.

Four Boys Sent To Industrial School For School Breakin
MENOMINEE—Four boys who admitted breaking into the Roosevelt and Washington schools over the weekend and stealing about $60 from students' milk funds have been committed to the Boys Vocational School at Lansing by Juvenile Judge Katherine Stiles Loughton.

Technically, the boys are committed to the jurisdiction of the Michigan Social Welfare Commission for screening and specific commitment to the Lansing school or some other boys welfare institution under recent revision of the juvenile delinquency laws.

At the hearing before Judge Loughton, two of the boys admitted breaking into the Washington School and all four admitted breaking into Roosevelt School. Both entries were made through basement windows.

Friends may begin calling at the Alto Funeral Home Sunday at 3 p. m. The rosary will be recited at 8 Sunday evening.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 9:30 a. m. at Holy Family Church, Flat Rock, with Rev. Gerald LaMothe officiating. Burial will be made in Escanaba Township Cemetery.

Russell Bid Is Outlined

Representatives of Frank Russell Jr. of Marquette met with the Escanaba Board of Education last evening to clarify the bid of Mr. Russell and Associates for the purchase of the Escanaba Daily Press.

Mr. Russell, who is vacationing in Florida, was not present but was represented by Lee Garvin, Marquette attorney; Walter Johnson, Marquette; and Lester Staples, Iron Mountain.

Garvin reported that Russell's bid constitutes a cash bid of $432,000 for the newspaper, not including the accounts receivable. His associates are George Osborn, publisher of the Sault Ste. Marie Evening News, and John Rice, publisher of the Houghton Mining Gazette, Garvin said.

In his written proposal opened by the Board last week, Russell said that he and his associates would pay $400,000 plus an amount up to $25,000 which employees of the newspaper could subscribe in preferred stock. The remaining $7,000 represents payment that would be made for inventory and prepaid expenses, it was indicated.

The Board has taken no action on any of the proposals submitted for the purchase of the paper.

Unemployment Receding Here, Survey Discloses

Unemployment in the Escanaba and Schoolcraft county areas apparently has reached its peak and a decline in the ranks of the unemployed seems to be on according to the February report of Whitney Dixon, manager of the Escanaba office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

During the last two weeks of February 1958 unemployment claims were filed in the local office and at Manistique showing a slight decline from the January total.

Reversing the trend for the past few months, total non-farm employment increased and showed a net gain of 60 workers during the period over the one preceding it.

The largest increase in employment occurred in the lumber and wood products industry and was partially offset by small employment decreases in other miscellaneous industries.

Unemployment here is estimated to have dropped by 50 workers and is now 1950. This level, with minor adjustments, is expected to hold well into the second quarter when seasonal industries resume operation.

Figures in the February report, compared with those of the corresponding figure last year show that the non-farm labor employed number 13,340 compared with 13,020 last year. The number of unemployed this year is 1,850 and 1,100 last year. The current farm employment figure is 11,350, last year's, 11,920. Those in self employment (including domestic), 1,400, last year the same. This year's wage and salary workers number 9,950, last year, 10,520. The manufacturing industry total is 3,090 this year and 3,130 last year. The non-manufacturing industry total for this year is 6,860, last year 7,390.

The employment service office estimates that four months hence employment figures will be hiked approximately 900.

Women figure in the local employment picture as follows: Non farm labor 2,930; unemployed 320, self employed (including domestic) 790, wage and salary workers, 1,890, manufacturing industries 200.

Baseball Lingo Helps Courtesy

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Employees of the Department of Agriculture are getting the chance to run through a fast few innings of baseball—sort of—during working hours.

Pressing for more polite and efficient telephone practices, the department is asking its employees to fill out questionnaires and score forms, all dressed up in baseball lingo.

For example: Is Doakes here the sort who pounces on the phone before it has had a chance to ring a second time? Then (crack, whistle) he has beat out a home run. Under the rules of the agriculture diamond he can rack up eight points for himself.

On the other hand, those same rules deal harshly with double, or triple, plays:

"Do you, instead of transferring calls to others who might also pass the buck, get the information and call back?"

The unfortunate who cannot answer "Yes" must score a strikeout against himself.

If the self-scorer makes 90 points or more in answering the questions, he may term himself a big leaguer. Between 80 and 90 points puts him in the bush league class; 70 to 80 in the sandlot division.

If he scores under 70 points, he must mark himself "benched" that is, for scoring purposes.

Some of the questions are: "Do you avoid such abrupt phrases as 'Who's calling?'; 'Do you use such polite phrases as 'Please,' 'Thank you,' 'I'm sorry?'; Do you, sound interested, awake, helpful, friendly, pleasant?"

The department gets explicit about courtesy:

"Answer promptly, identify yourself when answering, speak pleasantly, show interest, be as helpful as possible, make sure referrals are made to the right person, go out of your way to assure good service, offer to call back or have someone else call back if you aren't sure about the inquiry (don't take a chance), jot down requests or promises so they won't be forgotten."

Lifetime Immunity From Polio Promised Through New Vaccine

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The children who get the Salk polio vaccine this spring very possibly will become permanently immune to polio, Dr. Jonas E. Salk says.

He reported Thursday night that two small shots of the vaccine, with a third "booster" shot later, can outdo nature in creating antibodies to combat polio.

Dr. Salk, 39-year-old University of Pittsburgh bacteriologist, gave his answers on every score to a few scientists who have suggested delaying the mass vaccine tests on half a million or more children.

These trials, scheduled to begin within a few weeks, must be made to see if the vaccine actually protects against epidemics of polio, he said. The key question is whether antibodies in the blood are the real defense, as all evidence so far indicates.

Dr. Salk declared the vaccine is safe, potent, and can be plentiful.

Sault Starts Move To Make US-2 Four Lane Highway

SAULT STE. MARIE—Opening gun in a campaign for a four-lane highway between Sault Ste. Marie and St. Ignace was effected Wednesday night at a meeting of directors and committee chairman of the Chamber of Commerce.

A resolution, unanimously adopted, declares that with completion of the Mackinac Straits Bridge in 1957 and excellent prospects of an international bridge spanning the St. Mary's River, US-2 between the Straits and the Sault, unless converted to a four-lane road, will become a bottle neck that would automatically nullify much of the great advantages of the bridge.

During four months of the year US-2 is already congested, the resolution says. Augmenting the growing influx of summer tourists to and from the Straits, is the flow of traffic from highway M-28 which dead-ends at US-2 and the constantly growing traffic from the expanding Kinross Air Force Base.

With the opening of the Mackinac Bridge in 1957 the traffic will be much more than double that of 1953, according to Coverdale and Colpitts, consulting engineers, and upon whose predictions much of the faith in bond sales were pre-

Destruction Of Green Mill Is Economic Loss To Community

OWNERS of the Birds Eye Veneer Company yesterday sustained a loss by fire of about $250,000 in the destruction of the Green Mill but the community of Escanaba must also share in the loss. It is an economic blow even if the company finds it possible to absorb in its main plant the 35 men who were assigned to production in the Green Mill.

The swiftness with which the fire enveloped the sprawling plant, destroying the entire building and its contents in a matter of only a couple hours, shows once again the viciousness of fire. It likewise shows the need for constant vigilance against the hazards of fire because once fire breaks loose, it is virtually impossible to stop it until it has consumed all combustible materials in its path.

The Green Mill fire is the second industrial fire to beset this community in recent months. The other was the fire that destroyed the Northern Motor Rebuilders plant. This, fortunately, is now rebuilt and is back in full production but the fire cost

Lesson In Division

WE hear a lot these days about the divided world, divided political parties and so on. One might add that this is also the age of divided attention.

Television is the divisive force in this instance. Under special dispensation, your kids are eating dinner in front of the TV set. You can count to 25 in the time it takes fork to get from plate to mouth.

It's time for bed soon after, and you tell 'em to pick up their things and head out. Each operation is conducted in a state of semiparalysis, while they pause open-mouthed again and again to catch a glimpse of their favorite Wild West character wasting his usual quota of ammunition.

Eventually the job is done and they leave—backing out as if in the presence of royalty. And aren't they?

This is bad enough, but we adults are no better. We snuggle up with a book or a fat magazine, determined to "get some reading done." The wife turns on the set, pleading boredom over the ironing board.

Pretty soon we sneak a glance at the set "just to see what's on." These harmless little bootleg looks grow more frequent. Half an hour passes. The book lies carelessly dropped on the lap and we are staring fixedly at the screen. We had to see "how it came out."

Sound familiar?

Words, Wit & Wisdom

By William Morris

Today's word game is designed to test your ability to recognize words similar in meaning to one another. Below you will find two groups of ten words each. The first group is numbered 1, 2, 3, etc. The second group is lettered A, B, C, etc.

For each word in the first group you will find a word of almost the same meaning (a synonym) in the second group. Thus the word numbered 1 may mean practically the same as the word lettered F. Write this down as 1F. When you have written down all the answers, check against the correct pairings at the bottom.

Losing Life To Find It

By WILLIAM E. GILROY D. D.

"Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die," said Jesus (John 12:24), "it abideth alone; but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit."

These words were to have their supreme illustration in His own life and death, for His death on the Cross has brought forth much fruit.

But Jesus laid it down as a law of the spiritual world that "whosoever will save his life shall lose it; and whosoever will lose his life for My sake shall find it" (Matthew 16:25; John 12:25).

Jesus spoke these words as He was facing the Cross in an hour which, for the disciples as well as the prospect, was one of risk, danger and possible death.

It has meant no less for multitudes of Christian martyrs whose blood traditionally has been "the seed of the Church."

Is the Christian life, then, only a life of martyrdom? And are we, who are situated in areas where there is little danger of our dying for our faith, excluded from the life that is found through sacrifice?

It would seem under the time and circumstances that Jesus may have been referring to the actual giving up of physical life, the death of earth and time in contrast with keeping life "unto life eternal" (John 12:25).

But I think His words have a deeper and more general application to normal Christian living. Saint Paul suggested this when he wrote, in I Corinthians 15:31, "I die daily."

heavily in payroll losses as well as in property damage.

Company officials have already announced that the Green Mill will not be rebuilt. The announcement was not surprising because of the gradual diminishing of veneer logs. The company's main plant undoubtedly will be able to meet productive requirements.

PRISON HERE IS PREFERABLE (Green Bay Press-Gazette)

A while ago a group of Communists were convicted at Pittsburgh of conspiracy to overthrow this government by trick and violence. The judge there offered them freedom if they would go to Russia. None of them would consider it.

And now the six just so convicted at Detroit indicated a parallel feeling.

Judge Picard said to them: "Under federal laws I can change this sentence any time within the next sixty days, and, if any of you should decide you want to go to Russia, I would be glad to do so. I can arrange it."

None of the six wanted Russia. In deciding to accept an American prison for the next five years, which is the sentence most of them got, they gave evidence of better judgment than was their habit.

In this country they are of importance to Malenkov. In Russia they would only be another clod. Here they are of some importance to the Kremlin because they can be made useful. There they would never expect membership in the aristocracy that is already overcrowded. Here they can do some harm to America. There they can do good to no one.

But the full courtroom at Detroit understood very plainly when the judge spoke. For heavy applause swept the room. Now it became a case of "put up or shut up." If freedom is a dirty and a vile thing, why live in a country devoted to it? If communism is an orderly and beautiful creation, why not participate in it and help up hold it?

We suppose the answer of the Reds is that they love America so deeply and intensely they wish to sacrifice their lives to secure its devotion to Sovietism. And that isn't the biggest whopper that daily comes from Communist lips.

Questions and Answers

Q—I read that the budget President Eisenhower just sent to Congress is the "first prepared entirely by his Administration." How come?

A—The budget for fiscal 1955 (July 1, 1954, to June 30, 1955) is the first compiled wholly by the Eisenhower Administration. Former President Truman had prepared the budget for fiscal 1954 before President Eisenhower took office, since these complicated expenditure estimates must be compiled months before they are sent to Congress. Mr. Eisenhower did give Congress revisions to the Truman Budget, but the Administration feels the budget sent to Congress Jan. 21 is the first it can call its own.

Q—This coming November will bring a general election, and I've been wondering how many Members of Congress must run for re-election?

A—All 435 Representatives and, normally, 32 (one-third) of the 96 senators must run for re-election in every even-numbered year. This November the appointments of Sen. Thomas A. Burke (D-Ohio), Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.) and Sen. Robert W. Upton (R-N.H.) also expire, upping the total number of Senate seats at stake to 35. (Predecessors of Burke, Kuchel and Upton were all elected in 1950 and were not due to face the electorate again until 1956, but when a governor fills a Senatorial vacancy, his appointee serves only until the next general election.) Of the 35 seats at stake in 1954, 22 are now held by Democrats and 13 by Republicans.

What Paul meant by that is brought out in Galatians 2:20, where he says: "I am crucified with Christ; nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me; and the life that I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave Himself for me."

To read those words is to realize the source and secret of the strength of that Apostle, the firmness of will that could keep him fearless and undismayed under persecution and the threat of death (see Acts 20:24).

All that had pertained to his Master, Paul shared, and in that sharing he found as he said, the power of Christ in him, and in Whom he lived.

That experience is so deep, so vast, so overwhelming that I suppose few of us attain it. Yet such knowledge of Christ can bring strength and joy, such as has been brought to many humble souls, as well as outstanding saints.

Perhaps the mistake that most of us make is in failing to share all the experiences of the Christ as Paul did. We walk with Jesus in the fields, we listen as He talks in the villages with the common people who hear Him gladly; we watch as He blesses the little children.

But we shrink from following to the Cross, even as Mary, His mother, did (see John 19:25).

Yet the secret of the fullness of life is in going all the way. "He that loseth his life shall find it."

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

(Editors Note—Further dissecting the things that make McCarthy tick, Drew Pearson today reports on the senator's methods of retaliation.)

WASHINGTON—If you trace the attacks of Senator McCarthy against most of the major targets he has aimed at, you will invariably detect an underlying motive of revenge—a motive reminiscent of totalitarian tactics in Europe before the war.

McCarthy attacked Senators Tydings of Maryland and Benton of Connecticut because one questioned his charge of 205 Communists in the State Department; the other introduced a resolution asking for a probe of McCarthy.

McCarthy now seeks to defeat Sen. Margaret Chase Smith in Maine because she initiated the declaration of conscience which reflected on him. And of course the running feud with Secretary of the Army Stevens came after Stevens refused to admit that Fort Monmouth was riddled with Communists.

But the most brazen recent case of McCarthy vindictiveness was against the former assistant secretary of war, John J. McCloy, now head of the Chase Bank, which is not exactly a Communist institution.

McCloy has been out of government for some years after a distinguished career not only in the war department but as head of the World Bank and as high commissioner to Germany. Nevertheless, out of the clear blue, the senator from Wisconsin suddenly accused McCloy of destroying records of Communists in the U. S. Army.

The charge was so untrue that McCarthy had to retract it publicly. But he still accused McCloy of writing a wartime army order, which, McCarthy claimed, permitted Communists to be commissioned in the U. S. Army.

REASONS FOR REVENGE

But while the public has read of McCarthy's attack on McCloy, they don't know the motives behind that attack. It dates back to a famous speech made by President Eisenhower at Dartmouth last spring in which the President condemned book-burning. McCarthy bitterly resented that speech—obviously aimed at him.

And since the speech was extemporaneous, McCarthy was determined to find out who had inspired it, even sent an investigator all the way to Hanover N. H., to see who and what the inspiration was.

The inspiration, he found, was Mr. McCloy.

Actually the inspiration was accidental. Here is what happened. McCloy, too, was receiving an honorary degree from Dartmouth, and before the ceremonies, was talking to N. Y. attorney Joseph Proskauer about the books that had been burned at U. S. information libraries abroad at the demand of Senator McCarthy.

Catching only a fragment of the conversation, President Eisenhower leaned forward and asked: "What's this, what's this?" "I was telling about the burning of State Department books abroad," McCloy replied.

"Oh, they're not burning books," Ike interposed.

"I'm afraid they are, Mr. President," McCloy replied. "I have the evidence."

He then went on to tell the President how he as an American official in Germany knew firsthand the tremendous achievement of State Department libraries.

"Eighteen million Germans read those books in 1952 alone," McCloy explained. "Probably as many Germans studied the principles of our founding fathers as did Americans, thanks to those books."

"And the value of those books was that they were uncensored, they criticized you and me, and Dean Acheson and anyone else in government. The Germans knew they were uncensored and that was why they streamed into our libraries leaving the Houses of Kultur empty."

"These were books sent to American boys right after the war. Books which their parents and friends wanted them to read. There was nothing subversive about these books."

EISENHOWER IS MOVED

President Eisenhower listened intently. Then obviously moved he delivered impromptu the stirring Dartmouth speech on book-burning. It electrified the nation and was hailed by the American press as Ike's first crack-down on McCarthy.

McCarthy was so furious that next day he pulled wires at the White House to keep the speech from being broadcast over the Voice of America and also persuaded the President to issue a statement that the speech was meant as no reflection on him.

Princess Has New Beau, But Rumour Says She'll Be Mrs. T.

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

LONDON (NEA)—People who hobnob with royalty outside of court circles proper have noticed that Princess Margaret seems to have recovered her "joie de vivre" since the banishment of handsome Group Captain Peter Townsend.

And they are wondering whether she has fallen in love with 33-year-old Mark-Bonham Carter, grandson of the late Count Oxford and Asquith, who has been squiring her around lately to night clubs and other places of amusement.

In the same circles in Brussels, there has been much nodding of heads among members of the aristocratic "Bridle Club of Belgium."

They are watching with great interest the friendship between the dashing Air Attache Townsend and the beautiful Countess Althea Van Limburg-Stirum. Townsend, too, has learned to smile again. The wisecracker quip: "Loin des yeux loin du cour"—far from the eyes, far from the heart.

Has the 33-year-old, blue-eyed, blonde daughter of a Dutch aristocrat and an American mother really managed to make Townsend forget Princess Margaret?

They often ride together in the Bois de la Cambre. Almost daily he exercises one of her horses. They have attended several social functions together. But that is not necessarily proof they have fallen in love.

Belgian dowagers and matchmakers, on the other hand, point out that there are many factors in favor of the marriage of this attractive couple.

The countess is much nearer Townsend's age than Margaret, who is 15 years younger. They have many tastes in common—riding, dancing and a keen sense of humor (she also has a ready laugh, just like her "rival").

Whereas a few months ago Townsend had asked to be posted elsewhere because he complained of being an object of curiosity, there is no longer any talk of a transfer. Finally, there is no possible obstacle to the eventual marriage of a brilliant but divorced Air Attache and the daughter of a Dutch count.

While Townsend, because of his diplomatic position, could not comment, the countess recently declared: "I know that people are talking about us. Peter and I are not engaged. We both love horses and riding and that is one of the things which has brought us together."

The Townsend-Margaret partisans in London point out that the Air Attache, after all, could not be expected to give up all social life and has a perfect right to be friendly with a pretty woman without it necessarily meaning a romance.

His newly-found smile? They place a totally different interpretation on it. Margaret, too, they say, is smiling again, and no longer seems to be suffering from "love sickness." And the reason for that is because Townsend has paid several visits to London, each time lunching and dining with the Royal family.

During these visits, well-informed people say, their marriage was decided. Latest rumors are that it will take place in October. Before that Peter Townsend would be given an important post and knighted "for exceptional services," easily found in his magnificent war record. The promotion would take place before the official announcement of the engagement, which people say will be given out when Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh return to England the latter part of May.

Meantime, Margaret is being squired by Bonham-Carter—and Townsend squires the Dutch countess.

Buff Bathing Legal After Dark Under Old City Law

By A. VERNON DAVIS

NEA Special Correspondent

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—

(NEA) Don't look now, but they've discovered that it's legal to go swimming in the nude in the Atlantic Ocean at this popular seaside resort—if you time it right.

"Buff bathing," as it is called, is perfectly O. K. during certain hours after dark.

When the law permitting bathing in the raw was passed by Atlantic City officials back in 1878 there were movable bathhouses which were pulled close to the surf. Therefore, on a moonlight night it was possible to get out of your clothes and into the surf without too much exposure.

Today the nearest bathhouses are 300 feet and more from the surf, so nude bathing after dark is not such a simple process—from a legal standpoint.

Frank M. Butler, Atlantic City historian and retired newsman, wants the city fathers to repeal the "buff bathing" ordinance. Such a repeal would be a publicity move to give some nationwide attention to the fact that Atlantic City this year is celebrating its 100th anniversary.

The 1878 law says it's illegal to bathe in the surf between Arkansas and Georgia avenues from 4 a. m. to 10 p. m. and in the surf elsewhere from 5 a. m. to 9 p. m. when "so clothed as to prevent the indecent exposure of the body."

That left six hours uncovered, so to speak, and nude swimming after dark seems to have been a popular sport back in the 1800's. Said the Atlantic City Review in 1885:

"Many go down to the beach at night and take a buff bath. Buff baths are the proper caper around 1 a. m."

Maybe, comments an Atlantic City press agent, this is why the "Nineties" were so "gay."

"When the 1878 law was passed," says newsman Butler, "they had bathhouses close to the surf. Whether a nude could get away with it in the water or not today, the problem would be to get back and forth without getting locked up."

"In 1878 nobody wanted to get sunburned or tanned. Women's bathing suits all included skirts, and took seven yards of wool flannel. Only the face and hands showed. All wore big straw hats like you use in the hayfield."

No female was allowed to even roll down her stockings here until 1921, and it was 1928 before they were allowed to discard them altogether. Men took shirts off by 1940. Today, bathers are not allowed on the boardwalk.

"In the Eighties," says Butler, "some women wore padded suits with curves in the right places."

"Bloomer suits started in 1907, but at first no woman would wear them without a skirt."

Except, that is, after dark.

Good Evening...

By CLINT DUNATHAN

THE BIG FIRE—"We don't have fires in Escanaba very often, but when we do, they're big ones," said a friend of ours in discussing yesterday's destruction of the Birds Eye Veneer Company's Green Mill.

This would appear so at first glance, because most of us remember only the "big fires" of the past. They are the ones that make the headlines.

But in between are numerous small fires, ranging from chimneys that burn out and furnaces and heaters that overheat, to grass fires that sweep acres of grass and brushlands on the city's outskirts.

Escanaba's "big fires" are relatively few in number. But sandwiched in between are many calls that—but for the quick action of the firemen—could be destructive of life and property.

THROUGH THE YEARS—Escanaba has had its full quota of spectacular blazes, most of them dating back to an earlier day when the town was made of lumber and its economy was based in the lumber industry.

In those days the city's fire fighting equipment was less than adequate by today's standards while the risk of fires was greater because of the nature of its industries.

Sawmills burned to rise again from the ashes, because lumber was big business. The destruction by fire of the Green Mill was, in a sense, only a belated incident—for most sawmills seldom survive the fire hazard for more than 30 or 40 years.

The old woodenware factory on Stephenson Avenue is the only one in Escanaba that we know of that burned twice—the second fire some 25 years after the first.

About five or six years ago, after the city had purchased the property for industrial sites, the building at the south end of the area burned the night before the city proposed to raze it.

MOST DRAMATIC—Nominated for first place among the city's most dramatic fires was the destruction of the old ore docks.

According to accounts of the tragedy, the cries of men trapped on the outer end of the dock could be heard above the roar of the flames, before the men plunged or fell into the water below.

Vessels moored at the docks were cut loose in an effort to save them. One schooner, the Nahant, drifted in flames along the shore toward Sand Point and sank east of the present Municipal Dock. The location is marked by a spar buoy.

The docks were never rebuilt in that location.

GOING, GOING, GONE—Fire has removed some of Escanaba's best-known landmarks. In some instances new buildings have been built on the sites, in others the site has been left vacant.

Where the old woodenware ruins "decorated" Stephenson Avenue the welding plant of Harnischfeger Corporation is now located. Some of the walls were used in rebuilding the area.

St. Anne's Church, which burned about seven years ago, was a fire that was observed by only a few persons because it occurred in the early morning. Those who did see the blaze rank it among the most spectacular in the city's history—and doubly impressive because of the sadness that accompanies the destruction of structures of religious significance.

Major fires since that time include the loss of the Escanaba High School stadium and the fire that last winter swept the interior of the Northern Motor Rebuilders plant on First Ave. N.

THE BRIGHTER SIDE—People react to the catastrophe of fire with varying emotions.

Some people, like Harry Bourke of Escanaba, now retired, take the disaster philosophically. Some 10 years ago when a fire destroyed a Bourke enterprise at Wells, a friend came rushing to the fire scene and asked:

"Harry, is there anything I can do?" "Yes," Bourke replied calmly, "pick up my grandson at Escanaba and bring him over—he's never seen a big fire."

The loss to the Birds Eye Veneer Company in the destruction of its Green Mill was particularly unfortunate because of the improvements made there since the building was purchased about five years ago.

But Birds Eye officials salvaged something from the blaze. They mailed 250 copies of the Escanaba Daily Press containing the story and pictures of the fire to their customers, information which should explain any delay in filling orders.

Congress And Easter May Pep Up Business

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Easter and Congress may team up to give some merchants and manufacturers a lift. A tax cut before Easter, businessmen hope, would spark buying all down the line.

The U. S. Treasury figures the excise tax slash voted by the House would lose it almost one billion dollars a year in revenue—a sum it's loath to kiss goodbye while it's already running in the red.

Sales Spurt Foreseen

Merchants and manufacturers think the bill now before the Senate would increase their sales by at least twice that much. They make jewelry, sporting goods, luggage, cosmetics, furs, handbags, cigarette lighters; or they sell theater, airline, bus or train tickets, or service telephone and telegraph messages.

Most wistful are the ones the House says shouldn't share in any tax-cutting this year—those in the auto, tobacco, distilling, brewing and gasoline business.

They think sales would jump if taxes were cut, since the average consumer would translate this freely into a price cut. A drive is on to get the Senate to see it their way.

Easter comes late this year, April 18, so there's still time for excise tax cutting to boost retail sales. Merchants report a definite buying slowdown while customers watch Congress.

Veto Possible

Some merchants are trying to overcome this by announcing they'll refund to present customers the amount of the tax involved should it be cut between now and April 1, or even the end of April. Some merchants fear the Congress might delay too long for the cut to mean much to them until fall.

Some merchants remember, however, that if Congress cuts the taxes, the President could still veto the bill.

A tax cut, however, doesn't automatically mean a pickup in sales. The man out of work, or afraid of finding himself in that position, will delay purchasing when he can, even if the tax is lowered.

Businessmen, on the other hand, argue that holding taxes at the present level wouldn't assure the treasury a billion dollars more revenue next year, either. There's no guarantee people will buy as many so-called luxury goods this year as last, especially if taxes stay high.

Weather experts now believe it may be possible in the future to predict the weather as much as 10 years ahead.

Smelt Dipping Will Start Any Day Now

By JAMES A. O. CROWE

Associated Press Outdoor Writer
LANSING (AP)—Any day now in some little stream connected to the Great Lakes the first smelt will answer the call of warming water and start swimming upstream to spawn.

When that happens, Michigan's zaniest season in the outdoors will be on.

The first spawning smelt will be followed immediately by uncounted millions which will swarm up to the streams in such hordes as you wouldn't believe unless you saw them.

Humans Crazy Too

When the Great Lakes water reaches a certain temperature which, by the way is not known, one of nature's strange and wonderful mechanisms go into operation.

The smelt, which normally dwell in large and open water, head for the nearest small stream. The silvery little fish seldom go over six or seven inches in length, but when they are at the peak of their spawning run, they pack the streams from bank to bank and from top to bottom.

If you think that behavior is strange, you ought to see what happens to the human species.

They swarm to the streams in the thousands. Dressed in motley clothing, some with waders and others with just an old pair of boots, they plunge into the streams.

Fish Fries In Season

The humans are armed with dipnets, bushel baskets, gunny sacks, old hats, dishpans and anything else that will serve the purpose.

They gleefully scoop up hundreds of pounds of the tasty smelt, and monumental fish fries spring up all over the state.

Meanwhile, the great majority of the smelt have escaped the humans. They continue upstream to carry out the aged-old ritual of reproduction of their species. Then they filter back to the big water to start the cycle all over again.

The spawning run usually occurs in late March, but it is dependent entirely on the water temperature and has been known to start in mid-March.

So watch for it any day now. If you are not going smelt dipping, get out of the way of those who are or you'll get trampled in the rush.

Adult Education Conference To Be Held In Escanaba

Three area meetings, one at Escanaba, will be held by the Michigan Action Committee for Adult Education. The Escanaba meeting will be held April 9 and 10 at the House of Ludington. The other two are being held at Marquette March 29 and at Houghton March 30.

Purpose of these meetings, which will include representatives from the Upper Peninsula, is to help those in attendance to conduct community meetings on adult education. The public is invited and encouraged to attend these area meetings.

Charles Folio, supervisor of the Upper Peninsula University of Michigan Extension Service; Max Allen, director of instruction at Northern Michigan College of Education, Marquette; Fay L. Partlo, dean of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology, Houghton, and Robert Sharer of the Continuing Education Service of Michigan State College will be present at these meetings.

The committee is composed of 33 persons who are planning a statewide organization of persons and groups concerned with adult education. It also promotes interest in local and state programs. Membership would be open to individuals and groups interested in and engaged in this field.

Ira C. Lowe, 39-year-old, in a suit brought in U. S. District Court here named as defendants R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., American Tobacco Co., P. Lorillard Co., Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp., and Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

Lowe, an assemblyman for the Lincoln Engineering Co. here, said in his petition that he had accepted the defendants' public assurances their respective brands of cigarettes were free from harmful substance.

"As a direct and proximate result of the defendants' breaches of warranty... the plaintiff developed, still has and will in the future suffer from cancer," his petition charged.

Lowe stated he had smoked more than two packs a day from 1930 until 1952 when he entered the Jewish Hospital here, found he was suffering from cancer and underwent an operation for removal of his right lung.

The suit charged Lowe's earning capacity has been impaired, that he has lost wages at the rate of about $60 a week for two years and has incurred medical expenses totaling about $2,000.

Scientific studies on the possible relationship between smoking and cancer recently prompted a group of the nation's top cigarette makers and the U. S. public health service to launch independent researches to determine what effect, if any, cigarette smoking has on health.

Choosing Heating Plant Becomes Complex Problem

How to select a heating plant for a home is a problem that is becoming increasingly complex in the midst of all the claims and counterclaims made for various types of heat.

For several years it seemed that we all had to have radiant heat or we'd be old-fashioned. Then all of a sudden the air conditioning team installed its own cheer leaders. Builders forgot all the nice things they had said about radiant heat and seemed to imply that if you couldn't afford year-round air conditioning, your best bet would be at least to install circulating warm air—in order to have ducts ready for the coming revolution.

Well, it isn't hard to find good points in any successful heating system. And apparently the public knows this. Radiant baseboards, for instance, put on the most spectacular popularity show since World War II in any general classification of heating systems.

A survey of total heating installations in 17 states and the District of Columbia shows that baseboard radiation, among all "wet heat" installations, jumped from 11 per cent in 1947 to 40 per cent five years later. In the same period radiant panel installations rose only from 12 to 14 per cent. Cast iron radiators fell off from 36 to 17 per cent, and convectors also slipped from 41 to 29 per cent.

These figures are from a survey published by the Official Bulletin of the Heating, Piping and Air Conditioning Contractors National Association. The survey had been made on request of the American Iron and Steel Institute.

Warm air, of course, overshadowed all of the "wet heats."

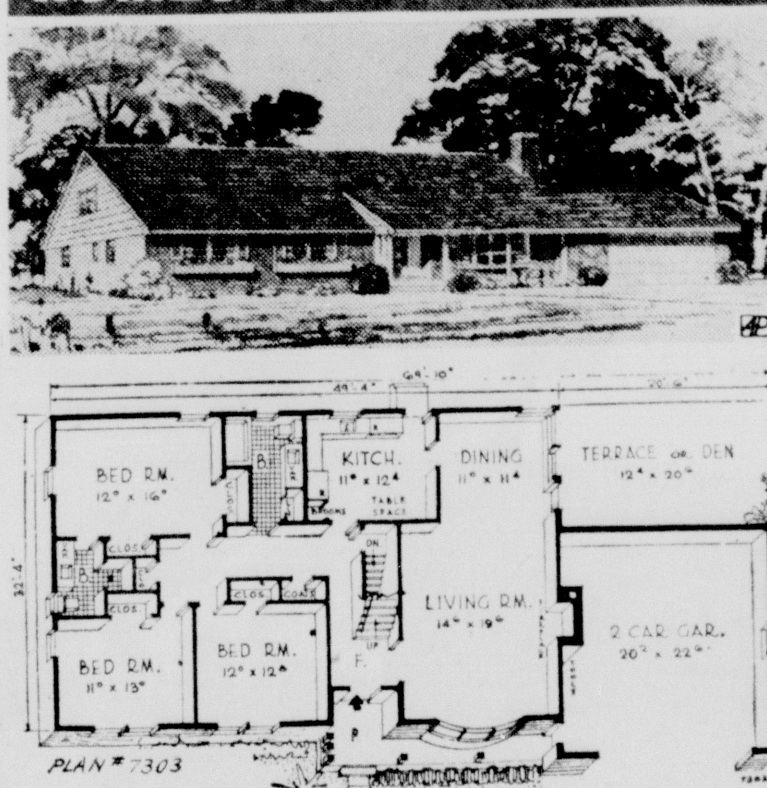

"Warm Air is predominantly used in smaller home construction to save builders' costs," an engineer observes. "Modern hospitals and luxury apartment houses use hot water because it gives constant and quiet heat. Industrial buildings may use steam because it can be forced quickly through pipes over long distances."

Because so many prospective home builders ask about the three systems, we were discussing them with Charles J. Kern, chief application engineer for Warren, Webster Co., heating equipment manufacturers.

"Many home buyers might be persuaded to take air heating to get air cooling," Kern said. "But they forget that they are buying air heating for several cold months of the year and air cooling for perhaps only one hot month. Thus they may trade winter comfort for summer comfort in far unequal proportions."

Kern contends that heating and

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

DESIGNED FOR THE TREND toward larger homes, this house with three bedrooms and two baths also has an expansion attic to accommodate two additional bedrooms and another bathroom. An alternative terrace or den behind the garage is an attractive feature. Plan 7303 by Herman H. York, architect, 90-04 161 st., Jamaica 2, N. Y. This house covers 1,575 square feet without garage. Paul Axelrod and Jack Lazar built and sold a house from this plan at Sherwood Gardens, Westbury, N. Y., for $26,500 on a 100 by 100 plot. (Further information and blueprints available from architect). (AP Newsfeatures) cooling are two separate problems, each having their best separate solutions.

Agreeing with this, Edward McIntosh, air conditioning specialist for the Philco Corp., argues that individual room cooling is still the most economical for the average house.

"Cold loss in distribution is much greater than heat loss," he says. "Ducts carrying cold air should be insulated. But such expensive finishing is rarely provided in warm air systems."

McIntosh cites other costs. "At time of construction, a six-room house designed for warm air heating," he says, "can be equipped for air cooling with a 3-ton machine and controls for perhaps $2,000. Cost of operation during a normal summer month in northeastern states might run close to $80. Such a machine uses 1½ gallons of water per ton every minute, which might give pause for thought in areas of drought.

"For an older house installation and operation could be expected to run higher. Single room units, using no water, and operating for a few cents an hour seem to be the most attractive."

So Kern and McIntosh give you the other side of the air conditioning picture, in case you have been wondering about radiant baseboard heat.

Printed electrical circuits which were used extensively in proximity fuses in World War II have been adapted to hearing aids says the American Hearing Aid Assn.

Love For Animals Spurs Escanaban In Search For Good Homes For Stray Dogs

Well known to many Delta County residents is the wonderful work accomplished for the humane society by Mrs. E. Alex Hawkins, 511 S. 11th St.

Mrs. Hawkins, an official member of the American Red Star Animal Relief (the national humane organization) and the Michigan Federation, has been doing humane work for many years. Originally from downtown Lansing, she has been a member for the past 15 years in Upper Michigan, at Marquette, Ironwood and Escanaba.

She had handled hundreds of cases from Delta County alone. Each community is supposed to be responsible for their own society, but Delta County has not any organized society as Marquette County does.

Seeks Animal Shelter

"I came to Escanaba during the war," she stated, "and at that time, a person was too busy with their many war time activities to try and conduct a campaign for beginning an organized humane society."

A shelter for the animals, which are taken in by the society, is the dream of Mrs. Hawkins. Once in a while, an animal must be left in an undesirable environment because of the lack of available shelter, she said.

"Homes can't always be found for animals in the short time allowed due to lack of proper shelter," she emphasized.

Main reasons for the investigations conducted by Mrs. Hawkins are lack of food, lack of water, lack of exercise and lack of proper shelter. Also ill treatment or cruel anxiety of any kind to the animal are important factors.

Investigates Cruelty

To begin with, usually some person either will call or visit Mrs. Hawkins and complain about the ill treatment of a dog near them or one case they know about. Then Mrs. Hawkins goes directly to the owners of the dog to judge and try to solve the unpleasant situation. She never tells the family who sent her there!

She tells them about the report and tries to point out the right and wrong. Most people are ready to agree because their vanity is injured by the idea that their neighbors are able to say these certain things about them.

"Many people do not realize that they are being cruel until that fact is pointed out to them," Mrs. Hawkins declared.

A remarkable fact about her work is that she remains friends with practically everyone whose dog she has taken to find better homes for. Many of them later have sought her advice on animal matters.

Supported By Law

Before Mrs. Hawkins is able to take an animal, she must know her reason is legal. A surprise to many people is the state law stating that a dog must have shelter both summer and winter, and another law that it is not illegal to tie up a dog if he is treated right.

An animal is not taken out of a home and put into another home where a bad situation exists as far as Mrs. Hawkins is concerned.

She has talked personally and by telephone to thousands of prospective animal owners.

A dog isn't placed into a home without a thorough investigation, not only the surroundings but the owners themselves. After a personal interview, Mrs. Hawkins can tell what kind of dog owners they would make and their reason for wanting the dog. If all other methods fail, children are the best means of information. This tactic is seldom used because adults unconsciously give their reasons and viewpoints.

"All of the investigating is for the welfare of the animals and the people," she said. "There are many nice homes and many nice people for these animals."

Records Maintained

Contrary to a popular belief, it does not matter what age an animal is when taken into a home. In the case of dogs, most people prefer a pup to mold the character of the animal themselves, but it is not necessary.

Ninety-five per cent of the humane work is dogs, including stray dogs. Cats also make up part of the percentage, and several horse and cow cases have been handled by Mrs. Hawkins.

Records are kept of the most troublesome cases, and all cases where people wish to adopt animals are recorded.

The work is not all troublesome.

It also includes recommending food diets, diagnosing an illness, giving and teaching animal first aid and teaching people how to care for their pets in general.

"I encourage every person to bring their dog to the veterinarian if the animal has more than a mild stomach ache or worms."

Mrs. Hawkins taught a defense program, first aid to the animals, at Ironwood during the war. It consisted of teaching people to take care of animals during emergencies (air raids, etc.).

Own Irish Setter

She most enjoys lecturing to people and helping them to like and enjoy their animals. It is more rewarding than anything to her for a person to begin to enjoy a dog through her concentrated efforts.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins are dog lovers. They presently own a beautiful Irish setter, nine months old, who is called Danny. They had owned two dogs, Duke, who died at 13, and Toby, who died at 16. They both died in the past several years. Toby was a flat bottomed retriever, and Duke was an English setter.

One fact Mrs. Hawkins especially wishes stressed is for people to tie their animals during the time the city requests animals to be tied.

"It is for the good of the animal and the people to keep their dogs in their own surroundings at home. They should not be allowed to wander in the spring. A person takes a chance on the animal biting, being hit or poisoned. If kept at home, neighbors will like them better, the dogs will behave and much less trouble will develop." She ended with the important statement that an animal is a responsibility which must be lived up to.

Mrs. Hawkins and Her Irish Setter

Two-Color 8c Stamp To Be Issued In April

Of unusual interest, especially to stamp collectors, is the announcement by Postmaster Arthur E. Summerfield of the first stamp of a new regular United States series. The stamp, a blue and red 8-cent in a Statue of Liberty design—announced at Washington and scheduled for release in "the early part of April"—marks a definite departure in U. S. postal issues.

It will be the first non-commemorative to bear the motto "In God We Trust" and the first regular stamp to be printed in two colors. The series of which it will be the forerunner will break with tradition in that it will get away from design-standardization and instead will carry a variety of vignettes.

In contrast, the present definitive group, known as the "Presidentials" are uniform in design. While the "Presidentials" number 32 denominations, the coming series seems destined to be restricted to 18—the number not yet determined exactly—for which there is valid postal use. Not all of these will be issued during 1954. It may be toward the close of next year or early in 1956 before the final one appears.

Increased Prestige

Postmaster Summerfield is in no hurry. He said last December he wanted the nation's postal adhesives "to be as artistic and colorful as possible." Also he is not unmindful of a recommendation by the Fine Arts Commission to the White House that "the prestige and authority of the art factor in the design of postage stamps" should be increased—a suggestion with which he is represented as being in sympathy.

Other U. S. stamps have been printed in more than one color, but they were high values or were issued commemorating a special occasion or honoring a particular person or place.

For example, the 3-cent Red Cross stamp of 1952 was blue and carmine. Also, in 1928 the Valley Forge issue depicting General George Washington on his knees in prayer had an inscription "In God We Trust." But this, too, was a commemorative.

The coming 8c—selected as the initial stamp in the series because eight cents is the new rate for an ordinary letter to most foreign lands—is intended to set the pace in a colorful and beautiful group. Also, inasmuch as "In God We Trust" is inscribed (in an arch above the head of the Liberty Statue), the vignette will convey a special message to other peoples.

The 8-center will replace the current 8c green portraying Martin Van Buren, and no further quantities of the latter stamp will be printed. Like the Van Buren 8c, the new one is steel-engraved and will run from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing's multi-color press developed through ten years of research.

The new stamp is of ordinary size: 0.75 by 0.87 inch arranged vertically. The part in red is that picturing the statue, with the arched "In God We Trust" in dark Gothic. The background is blue "in a gradual tone effect with the dark tone at the edges and fading toward the center to create a white halo" behind the statue. "Liberty" is in white face Gothic along the stamp's base and "U. S. Postage 8c" in the same type across the top.

Stamp collectors desiring first day cancellations of this new stamp may send "a reasonable number" of addressed envelopes, with money order remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Washington, D. C. The outside envelope should be endorsed "First Day Covers."

High Interest In Religion Shown At Western Michigan

KALAMAZOO—A high interest in religion by the students of Western Michigan College was indicated in a recent survey of the 3,525 enrolled at the undergraduate level for the spring semester.

More than 63 per cent of them were found to have a membership in a church, while only 399 indicated little or no interest in such matters.

Largest denominational groups were found in the Methodists and Roman Catholics, 530 and 510 being their respective memberships. The Methodists also tallied 295 as having a preference, but not membership. Only 66 non-members expressed a Roman Catholic preference.

Other large denominational representatives, tallied by members and non-member preferences were: Presbyterian, 221 and 119; Lutheran, 201 and 34; Congregational 180 and 76; Baptist, 135 and 83 and Episcopalian, 130 and 34.

Nearing 97, 'Dad' Brackett Still Devotes Happy Hours To Painting

By J. R. LOWELL

Every so often—every couple of years at least—the Daily Press finds it advisable to check up on how Escanaba's oldest resident, David E. "Dad" Brackett, is getting along. Since he has not been about as much of late as formerly, many of his friends have inquired about his health and if he still gives attention to those hobbies that have endeared him to so many.

At his home at 215 Ogden Ave. Wednesday afternoon, he was found to be in good health, physically and mentally active and admitting of a new ambition.

"On May 17, I shall be 97 years old," he told the Daily Press reporter. "I feel good, I take good care of myself and my friends make life so pleasant for me that I simply can't see what should stop me from living to be 100. Anyway I'm going to try."

Looks Much Younger

It would be a rank pessimist who would gainsay his confidence. He is a bright and sparkling conversationalist, there is still spring in his step, he still pursues his hobby of painting and figures that he will spend much time in his garden this coming summer.

But he admits that he is beginning to feel "just a bit old." He had a touch of arthritis this winter and a bad cold tied him down for a while, but his family doctor has pronounced his ability to recuperate as little short of marvelous.

Mr. Brackett says that he has discontinued the practice of taking daily dips in the bay. "Up to five years ago I hardly missed a day from early June to the middle of September," he said. "I didn't stay in the water more than a minute or two—just long enough to get the blood circulating and then I'd take a brisk walk along the beach. It used to pep me up like nothing else could—I may try it again some time this summer," he added and grinned at the suggestion that he test the water with his elbow before venturing in.

He also admitted that it has been quite some time since he turned a hand spring. The last time was about seven years ago, when he was "only" 90 years old. He and a group of friends rode out to Minneapolis Shoal on a fishing tug. On the way back he undertook to show some of the young 40-year-olds "where to head in and at," and turned several hand springs—staying long enough on his hands to enable his son Harry to take several good snapshots.

"Slows Down A Bit" . . .

"I don't cut up like that anymore," he said. But he gets about. At the present time he has no housekeeper, but one would never suspect it from the spotless appearance of his home. He said it keeps him busy—but not too busy to keep him from devoting much time to his beloved art work.

His eyes shone when the subject of painting was broached. "I get more enjoyment out of this pastime than any other," he said. "It is relaxing and is a big factor in staying fit."

Adept in both the oil and the water color mediums, he has produced outstanding results. The merit of some of these has been recognized at the art exhibits of the Upper Peninsula Estate Fair where he has won a number of prizes.

Particularly effective in draftsmanship and color is a copy of Henry Major's "Gay Philosopher." The impish grin of the trampish character he has delineated is as infectious as the original.

Paints Pictures Of Old Home

Of late years, however, Mr. Brackett's talent has moved him to show scenes of the old home in Bellvue, Eaton county, where he was born. The pictures are interesting as works of art, but far more interesting when he points out and tells about this or that feature, such as the old apple orchard, or the special building his father had constructed to house his geological collection.

"That dirt road in front of the house," he said, "may not mean much to you, but I never look at the picture without recalling the thrill I felt when I saw my uncle coming to our house." He then explained that his uncle was returning from the Civil war and was riding "one of the most beautiful and proud Arabian horses I have ever seen." That was a thrill in itself, but it was not to be compared with the one that surged through him when his uncle let him ride the animal.

Another of Mr. Brackett's efforts is a lengthy poem enlarging on his philosophy of life. The poem, neatly typed and embellished with small paintings illustrating varied themes, has been framed and may well be considered as an heirloom that will be valued for many generations.

From it one may glean that the author has thought deeply on the ways of life and has come to the conclusion that the ways of the Creator are beyond comprehension hension and it behooves mankind to place in Him our simple and unflattering trust in His goodness and mercy.

"DAD" BRACKETT AND HIS PAINTINGS

Wistful for a moment, Mr.

Brackett said that one of the trials of reaching the advanced age he has attained is saying goodbye to practically all of what had once been a large family circle. It has been hard to bear, he said. Then he smiled and added, "But the memories have been wonderful . . . and everybody is so kind and considerate."

Social Security 'Payroll' In Delta County $65,000 Monthly

A "payroll" that is now nearly $65,000 a month in Delta County and growing steadily, equal to a stable industry employing 200 workers at $325 a month, is Social Security, the federal old-age and survivors insurance program.

At the end of 1953—the 17th year of Federal social security—old-age and survivors insurance payments of about $336,632 in monthly benefits were going to 8367 persons in the eight counties served by the Escanaba office of the Social Security Administration.

For the entire nation, including Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands, estimates show an increase of approximately one million beneficiaries with the year ending December 31. The 5-millionth person was awarded payments just over a year ago, early in December 1952.

Program Is Expanded

In September of 1950 the Congress enacted an amendment to the law which greatly expanded the scope of the program. At that time only three million people were getting benefits. The number has just about doubled in the last 3-year period, having reached 5,970,000 by year's end, according to preliminary estimates made in December.

Since the program was originally designed to give a measure of protection to the nation's aged people, Carl L. Johnson, manager of the Escanaba field office, says it is significant to note that about 40 per cent of all aged persons who are without income from employment or self-employment are now getting old-age and survivors payments. The number of such beneficiaries nationwide shows an increase of almost 600,000 since the close of 1952. Self-employed people and regularly employed farm and household workers 65 or over are among those who started getting payments in 1953. The kind of work in which they were engaged did not count toward old-age and survivors insurance before 1951.

Financed By Taxes

The old-age and survivors insurance program is financed from social security taxes paid by employees, their employers, and self-employed persons whose trade or business is covered by the law. Tax contributions amounted to 4 billion dollars in 1953. All social security taxes go into a trust fund which is kept separate from all other tax collections of the Treasury. The only expenditures which can be made from his fund are for paying social security benefits and the cost of administration under the program.

For all counties this amounted to a total of $4,039,592 a year to those persons getting old-age or survivors insurance under the provisions of the Social Security Act. Counties serviced by the Escanaba field office of the Social Security Administration are Chippewa, Delta, Dickinson, Iron, Luce, Mackinac, Menominee and Schoolcraft.

Modern Hankerchief Is Relic Of Medieval Finery

WASHINGTON — Surrounded by machine age factories, a small island of European handicraft continues to turn out one of the oldest articles of useful and decorative wear—the hankerchief.

At the textile center of Cambrai, in northeast France, veteran artisans still weave fine cloth by hand before cutting it into squares for finishing, says the National Geographic Society. Often the work is done at home on looms that have been in the same family for generations.

Cambrie, a material originally made of linen and now including various grades of cotton, was named for Cambrai (Flemish Kamerik). According to tradition, the close cambrie weave was first produced there in the 15th century.

Cambrai's hankerchiefs once were all white, trimmed with delicate lace or embroidery. Now color splashes across the looms. Fifteen or more shades decorate the elaborate designs of today's hand weavers.

For the Rich Only

Whatever the latest achievements in color and design, there is nothing new about the hankerchief itself, whether carried or worn for decoration. Students of dress and custom find references to its use in fashionable Europe as early as the 11th century.

By the 15th and 16th centuries, handkerchiefs were in vogue among the nobility and well-to-do from the Baltic Sea to the Mediterranean. Nobody else could afford them.

Venetian ladies displayed handsome 18-inch squares of cambrie and lawn, trimmed with metallic or colored-thread embroideries. Edged with lace, fringed and tasseled, some hung by a cord from the waist.

"Hankerchiefs" of various sizes and shapes were highly prized in the English court under Queen Elizabeth I. As on the continent, many of these were expensive and ornate, with gold and silver embellishment.

Others, exhibited as tokens of affection, bore names of the beloved and "true love knots." Ladies gave miniature bits of such finery to young men, who wore them in their hats as favors.

Queens Held Handkerchiefs

Lace was common handkerchief adornment from the earliest times. It probably reached its most elaborate forms during the 18th century age of elegance preceding the French Revolution.

Two famous 16th-century portraits of Catherine, Queen of Portugal, and Queen Ann of Spain showed both with large lace-inset hankerchiefs held firmly in hand.

In the 18th and 19th centuries, India prints and Paisleys became popular additions to the old-fashioned white styles. Other prints depicted current news events and proclaimed political affiliations. One early 19th-century English handkerchief copied the American Declaration of Independence in full.

Tree Planter Machine Available To Farmers

A tree planting machine, owned by the Escanaba Paper Company, will again be available for spring planting to farmers and land owners in Delta County and surrounding areas according to Robert Schmeling, forester for the company.

Schmeling stated that it was the desire of the company to encourage tree planting on idle or marginal land in order to put this land to the best use. This, he noted, is in accordance with the objectives of the local Delta County Soil Conservation District, the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, Forest Service, and other resource agencies.

The planter is tractor drawn and requires two additional men besides the tractor operator for efficient operation. A team as this can plant between seven and nine thousand trees (transplants usually are preferred for machine use) per day depending on ground conditions.

Schmeling said he had discussed with Irwin Ten Haken, U. S. Soil Conservation Service representative, the desire of the Escanaba Paper Company to cooperate with the Delta County Soil Conservation District. As a result, the farmers cooperating with the district are being encouraged to speed up their tree planting program by making use of the machine.

A nominal rental fee will be charged and scheduling of the machine can be made through his office according to Schmeling. Anyone interested in further details

Hot Houghton Quint Drops St. Joe Trojans By 86-74

NEGAUNEE—The defending champion St. Joe Trojans fell victim to a red-hot shooting quint from Houghton here last night and were eliminated in the Upper Peninsula Class C semifinals, 86-74.

St. Joe simply couldn't match the uncanny shooting displayed by the Gremlins who poured a steady stream of field goals and free throws through the nets. Their 86 points represents the highest total scored in this season's U. P. district and regional tournaments and the combined total of 160 for both teams is also a tournament record this year.

Sharpest Houghton thorn in St. Joe's side was little Ralph Hurley, an excellent ball handler and deadly shooter. A guard by trade, Hurley moved into the pivot slot against St. Joe's zone defense and distracted the Trojans with his expert play.

Trojans Fight Back
At one stage in the game Hurley raced in for three fast-break baskets within 30 seconds to pull Houghton into a nine-point lead midway in the third period.

Although beaten, Coach Tom St. Germain's Trojans didn't go down without a fight. Twice they overcame apparently insurmountable leads piled up by Houghton.

At the end of the first period St. Joe was behind by seven points, 23-16. But the Trojans dug in to narrow the margin to one point, 37-36, at the half. Midway in the third period Houghton stretched its lead to nine points, 53-44, but again St. Joe came back strong to cut it to four, 56-52, shortly before the period ended.

Hirn Scores 21
St. Joe's senior forward David Hirn took up the scoring reins to hit 21 points before fouling out of action with 25 seconds remaining in the third period. Guard Jim Zimmerman also left on fouls with two minutes to go in the game and Jerry McDonough fouled out with a minute left.

Personal fouls were troublesome

Hawks Open Hockey Playoffs Wednesday Night At Marquette

Escanaba's scrappy Hawks will face their arch rival, the Marquette Sentinels, and the league-leading Portage Lake Pioneers will battle the defending champion Calumet Radars in semifinal championship playoffs of the Northern Michigan Hockey loop beginning next week.

After Calumet and Houghton tangle in the opener at Michigan Tech's Dee Stadium Tuesday night, the Hawks and Sentinels will face off at Marquette's artificial ice Wednesday night, starting at 8. Both series are best-of-three affairs, and the championship finals will be best-of-five.

In second semifinal games, Houghton will be at Calumet Thursday and Marquette will be at Escanaba Friday night. Should both series go the limit, Calumet will play at Houghton and Escanaba will travel to Marquette Sunday, March 21.

Babe Zaharias Leading Field

By MERCER BAILEY
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—"Here comes the Babe."

That cry took on a double meaning today in the 15th Women's Titleholders Golf Tournament. Not only was it the watchword of the galleries; it also was a warning that Mildred Didrikson Zaharias had found the range and was gunning for her fourth titleholders crown and her third successive victory on the winter golf circuit.

Atlanta's Louise Suggs held a two-stroke lead at 144 going into today's third round of the 72-hole tournament, but the Babe was in close pursuit.

Mrs. Zaharias shattered the Augusta Country Club's competitive course record for Women Friday with a 35-35-70, two under men's par for the 6,627-yard course. She had a 146 total, four strokes ahead of defending champion Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill.

Her 36-hole total of 150 was good for third place, one stroke better than Betty Jameson and Betty Dodd, both of San Antonio, Tex., and amateur Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif.

Hogan established his time in an invitation race on a grass track of the Sydney Sports Ground.

Earlier today, he also equaled the world 100 meter record of 10.2 seconds but it came in an unofficial handicap race and will not be claimed as a world mark.

Australian Dashman Equals World Record

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Hector Hogan, Australia's sensational runner, equaled the world 100-yard record of 9.3 seconds today.

The mark was set by America's Mel Patton on May 15, 1948, at Fresno, Calif.

Hogan established his time in an invitation race on a grass track of the Sydney Sports Ground.

Earlier today, he also equaled the world 100 meter record of 10.2 seconds but it came in an unofficial handicap race and will not be claimed as a world mark.

The darkhorse icers from Troy, N.Y., took advantage of Wolverine penalties to pile a 3-1 advantage in the first period, and were never headed.

from the field and the free throw line. The Gremlins hit on 24 of 36 charity tosses to 22 of 35 for the Trojans.

The defeat marked the first time in four years that St. Joe failed to make the Upper Peninsula finals in Class C. The Trojans were the last of the defending U. P. champion.

Houghton will meet Wakefield tonight at 8 for the right to represent the Peninsula in the state tournament next week. Wakefield gained the finals by defeating Rudyard, 58-52, in the other semifinal game last night.

Time Runs Out As Eskymos Lose To Munising, 55-54

HOUGHTON—Time ran out on the fighting Escanaba Eskymos here last night as they lost a one-point verdict, 55-54, to the Munising Mustangs in the Upper Peninsula Class B regional tournament semifinals.

After holding an edge over Munising through most of the game, except for the first period, the Eskymos raced into the final minutes in a nip-and-tuck contest. The lead exchanged hands with every basket in the early minutes of the final period until Munising's Ron Beauchaine scored two in a row to give the Mustangs a 49-46 edge with four minutes remaining.

Eskymo guard John Dulek narrowed the deficit with a field goal but Beauchaine came back with a hook to make it 51-48. Jim Bolm spun in a layup for the Eskymos to cut it to 51-50 with 2:30 remaining. Beauchaine again hit the hoop for Munising and the Mustangs led 53-50 until Tom Gregoire scored to make it 53-52 with two minutes left.

Eskymos Lead 54-53
At the one-minute mark Eskymo Jim Finn was fouled by Beauchaine and dropped in both free throws to move Coach Burt Gustafson's team ahead 54-53.

The Mustangs wheeled downcourt and Frank Hamilla scored to wrest the lead, 55-54. Escanaba had a chance to go ahead but missed on a field goal attempt and Munising intercepted a pass to gain possession with 35 seconds remaining in the game. The Mustangs effectively controlled the ball to run out the scoreboard clock.

The Eskymos had to overcome a seven-point deficit in the first period when Munising pulled out to an 11-4 lead. Late field goals by Bill LeMire and Bolm cut the margin to 12-8 at the end of the period.

Ahead At Half
Escanaba gained the lead for the first time in the game midway in the second frame when Bolm, fouled by Tom Olson, scored on a free throw to make it 17-16. Finn had knotted the score at 16-16 moments before with two straight field goals. From there on out the Eskymos gradually spread their lead until at halftime they owned a 26-21 advantage.

A quick spurt by Munising in the third period knotted the game again and the lead changed hands several times until Jim Mongrain's late layup gave the Eskymos a 41-38 lead entering the last quarter. With center Bolm scoring a 26-point total on a dozen field goals and two free throws, the Eskymos outscored Munising from the floor, 24 to 23 goals. But Coach Stan Whitman's Mustangs hit on nine of 16 free shots against six of 13 for the Eskymos for the margin of victory.

Bolm Top Scorer
Bolm's pivot play overshadowed that of Beauchaine, leading Great Lakes Conference scorer in the regular season. Beauchaine hit on 10 from the floor and three from the foul line for 23 points. Hamilla chipped in with 20 to account for most of the Mustang's remaining points.

Finn added a big 14 points to the Escanaba total with six goals and two free throws. Remainder of the scoring was low with LeMire, Bolm and Finn were leading rebounders for the Eskymos.

In the other semifinal game last night the Iron Mountain Mountaineers scored a pair of free throws in the final 15 seconds to win a 61-59 overtime decision over the Negaunee Miners. Iron Mountain will play Munising for the U. P. Class B championship tonight at 8.

Valdes Wins But Is Unimpressive

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—His prestige dimmed by a lack-lustre victory over James J. Parker, big Nino Valdes of Cuba today planned a European invasion to bolster his chances for a September title shot at heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano.

In fact his prestige was dimmed so much that chairman Bob Christenberry of the New York State Athletic Commission said Valdes' check for $5,000 was being returned. The Cuban posted the $5,000 about three weeks ago as a challenge for Marciano's title.

The 29-year-old Cuban champion and the world's No. 2 heavyweight contender will first fight Belgian Karel Sys in Antwerp in April, according to his manager.

Valdes scored his seventh straight victory by outpointing the Canadian - born, Paterson, N. J., Parker at Madison Square Garden Friday night. The decision was unanimous but Nino failed to impress the crowd of 4,173 (gross gate $12,619) and televisioners across the nation.

"I hurt my right hand in the fourth round," said Valdes. "Otherwise I knock him out in the sixth or seventh round."

Valdes, 211½ pounds, and Parker, packing 210, mauled away mostly at close quarters. Nino fought sporadically, concentrating most of his heavy fire at Parker's midsection.

The loss snapped Parker's win streak at nine and was his fifth defeat against 26 victories. Valdes racked up his 30th win against eight defeats.

Williams Expects To Leave Hospital Monday

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Red Sox slugger Ted Williams — recuperating from an operation on his broken left collarbone — hopes to leave the hospital Monday or Tuesday.

The lanky $100,000-a-year baseball star expects to head back to Miami in about 10 days, but won't be able to do any batting or throwing until about sometime in April.

Dr. Russell Sullivan, Williams' fishing pal who performed the operation last Tuesday to wire together the broken bones in the shoulder, gave that estimate Friday.

Northtown Eagles Win Midget Title

The Northtown Eagles whipped Southside Hurricanes 7-4 to win the city Midget Hockey League playoffs with Bob Dagenais scoring six of the goals for the winners. Kris Fitzpatrick and Marvin Nault hit twice each for the losers.

The Junior League championship game this afternoon matches the Northtown Rockets against the Southside Hornets at 1:30.

Cornell advanced to the finals in the Junior League by tipping the Escanaba Indians 3-2. Cornell will play the Wells Red Wings at 6 Sunday in the championship game.

Highland Park Cage Quint Is Powerhouse

By JOE FALLS
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
The Highland Park powerhouse—an awesome machine — was a standout favorite as 66 teams prepared for Saturday's regional finals in the State High School Basketball Tournament.

The Parkers erased all doubt that they're the No. 1 team to beat for the Class A title last night, when they crushed Hamtramck, 75-42.

It was their 16th straight victory—every one in a breeze. No team has come within 10 points of the Parkers, who are shooting for their second championship in three years.

High With 38
George Lee, Highland Park's 6-foot-3 center, scored 38 points. He played only three quarters.

Tonight's regional final matches the Parkers against Royal Oak, which stunned Grosse Pointe with a 65-56 upset last night. When tonight's firing is over, the

With but two days left in the regular season, it is possible that first in the eastern division, National Basketball Assn. will not be decided until the final whistle is blown.

The New York Knickerbockers, who already have clinched a tie first in the eastern division, need one win in their two remaining games with Syracuse to assure them of the top spot. Two losses would tie them with the Nationals. They meet in a home-and-home series starting today in New York.

The western division is just as tight. Minneapolis also has clinched a tie and can win it by beating Fort Wayne tonight. A Lakers loss, coupled with Rochester wins tonight and Sunday, would mean a deadlock between the two clubs.

The Boston Celtics, fighting for second place in the eastern division, went through two overtime periods Friday night before downing the Philadelphia Warriors 97-95.

32 survivors in classes A, B, C and D will advance to Wednesday's quarter - finals. Additionally, the Class E champion of the Upper Peninsula will have been crowned. It'll be either Perkins or Alpha, who collide in an afternoon game. There are a flock of top games in Class A.

Unbeaten Team Falls
Lansing Sexton, winner of 18 in a row, meets Traverse City 14-2. Defending Champion Dearborn Fordson goes against Detroit St. Joseph and Muskegon Heights 15-1, a west coast power, tangles with Grand Rapids Christian 17-3.

A pair of five-time champions—Kalamazoo Central and Flint Northern—darkhorse Saginaw Arthur Hill—while Central meets Benton Harbor.

The unbeaten field was reduced to two—Highland Park and Lansing Sexton—when East Jackson, which had won 18 straight, lost to Morenci in overtime, 47-44.

Defending Champ Indiana Beaten By Irish In NCAA

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—With the defending champion on the outside looking in, Notre Dame loomed today as the team to beat in the NCAA post-season basketball tournament.

But the Irish, who stunned Indiana, the 1953 winner, Friday night by the margin of a single point—65-64—must go up against Penn State, another upset-minded outfit tonight in Iowa City in the quarter-finals.

Other quarter-final round games tonight pit Navy against La Salle at Philadelphia, Bradley against Oklahoma A&M at Stillwater, Okla., and Southern California against Santa Clara at Corvallis, Ore. The winners will move on to the semi-finals and finals next weekend in Kansas City.

Shock For Coach

It was ironic that Branch McCracken's Indiana team, the Big 10 champion, should make its exit by one point, for last year the Hoosiers won the title by the same margin over Kansas. It was a real shocker for McCracken as he considered his 1954 quintet one of his best.

But Notre Dame in general and daring Dick Rosensthal in particular, were not awed by the feared Hoosiers from Bloomington, Ind. Rosensthal dropped in 25 points, made a free throw 15 seconds before the end that provided the eventual margin of victory and completely throttled all-America Don Schlundt who made but one field goal.

Louisiana State Stopped

Penn State, for its part, upended Louisiana State 78-70 in the other half of the Iowa City doubleheader so Notre Dame will have its hands full.

The other round of 16 games did not provide any startling form reversals. La Salle whipped North Carolina State 88-81 and Navy edged Cornell 69-67 in Philadelphia; Oklahoma A&M slugged Rice 51-45 and Bradley turned back Colorado 76-64 at Stillwater, and at Corvallis, Southern California dumped Idaho State 73-59 and Santa Clara halted Colorado A&M 73-50.

Penn State, an at-large entry like Notre Dame, must be an underrated team. The Nittany Lions couldn't do much with LSU's all-America, Bob Pettit, who poured 34 points through the hoop, but they did stop his mates.

Gola Fares Better

Another all-America, Tom Gola of La Salle, had better luck than Pettit. He scored 26 points and grabbed the same number of rebounds in his team's triumph over North Carolina State. The game was close until the last five minutes.

Bradley's victory over Colorado was engineered to a great extent by Bob Carney, who set a new NCAA record for foul shots hit for 23 of them. He totaled 37 points for the game. Seattle's John O'Brien held the old foul record—18.

Pick Fighting Irish To Win NCAA Crown

By BEN PILEGR

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—Notre Dame, riding an 18-game winning streak, guaranteed the NCAA a new basketball champion and the experts here today were picking the Fighting Irish to be it.

In a bitter intra-state battle Friday night the Irish edged Indiana, the defending titlist, 65-64 and meet Penn State tonight for the right to enter the four team finals at Kansas City next weekend.

Penn State surprised Louisiana State 78-70 in the other first round game here before a crowd of 9,000, but appeared to lack the class of the sixth ranking St. Bend club.

Only Two Losses

Notre Dame has lost only twice in 24 games this season — to Indiana and Bradley before Christmas.

mas. Friday night's defeat was Indiana's fourth of the campaign and their first ever in NCAA play here. Dick Rosensthal, a 6-4 pivot man from St. Louis who held all-American Don Schlundt to a single field goal, will have to pit his talents tonight against Jesse Annelo, who has one of the best hook shots in the business.

Annelo was the Penn State star in the LSU upset although he had to share honors with brilliant combination zone and press defense that left the Southerners helpless and bewildered much of the game. All America Bob Pettit hit for 34 points and grabbed 24 rebounds but LSU couldn't give him the shooting and passing help he needed.

Can They Last?

The only doubts about Notre Dame concern its stamina. The Irish have been an iron man club all year, rarely using more than five or six players. They used seven Friday night but Rosensthal played all the way even though he collapsed on the floor and became sick during a time out late in the last quarter.

He returned to the lineup when play resumed and scored the free throw that made the eventual difference. LSU meets Indiana in a third place game tonight 6 p.m. (CST).

Duquesne Is Favored To Win NIT Tourney

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—If basketball form holds true, as it has through most of the 17th National Invitation Tournament, Duquesne's Iron Dukes will beat Holy Cross tonight and take the title that has eluded them ever since they first went to the final round 14 years ago.

But Holy Cross is the only team to upset the Duke so far in the tournament and it's part of NIT "form" that there has to be at least one outsider to cause trouble.

Until the Crusaders, the third-ranked team, spilled second-seeded Western Kentucky 75-69 Thursday night, the favorites had won every game. And for the first time since the field was expanded to 12 teams, all four seeded teams reached the semi-finals.

On this basis, the fired-up Crusaders, urged on by the largest and noisiest rooting section of any of the tournament entries, figure to have a good chance of perpetrating another upset. It should be an interesting clash between one of the best defensive teams in America, Duquesne, and one of the strongest offensive aggregations, Holy Cross.

The preliminary third-place game between Western Kentucky and Niagara may also have bright moments. The Kentucky team, tabbed by veteran Coach Ed Diddle as the best in his 34 years, didn't like being beaten for the second time in 31 games.

It is the seventh NIT for Duquesne, which lost to Colorado in the 1940 final and didn't get to the last round again until this year. It's only the second NIT for Holy Cross, which also has played in three National Collegiate A.A. tournaments the past six years.

Prosecutor's Records Not Open To Public, Attorney General Says

LANSING (AP)—An Attorney General's opinion said today that the "personal and private records" of prosecuting attorneys, especially those dealing with criminal investigations, are not open for public inspection.

In another opinion, the Attorney General held that penalties for failure to pay property taxes in fourth class cities may be imposed on Jan. 10, despite the fact that a 1952 law changed the deadline for taxes to Jan. 20 under the general property tax law.

NOTICE TO UTILITY CUSTOMERS

Utility rate ordinances provide for the collection of a five percent (5%) penalty on all utility accounts not paid on or before due date. However for some time each customer has, when late, been excused from paying the penalty on one month's bill one time each year.

Because of certain Administrative, Accounting and Collection difficulties and expense encountered in our present policy of excusing a customer from paying the penalty on one late payment each year, it becomes necessary to make a slight change in our policy in this regard.

Effective March 15, 1954 and thereafter each utility customer will, if late, be granted an extension of time for paying one month's bill or part thereof one time each year, except that no extension of time will be granted a utility customer who is in arrears in his utility account. The period for paying that one late bill without penalty will extend to and include the date following month's bill is mailed out.

All amounts shown as arrears on a utility bill are subject to a five percent penalty which must be paid at time payment of arrears is made.

GROWING SPIRITUALLY

By
E. STANLEY JONES

Phil. 2:5-11 (R.S.V.)

FROM SELF-CENTERED TO GOD-CENTERED

We saw yesterday that the first step in growing is transplanting—shifting from a self-centered life to a God-centered life.

This cuts across a great deal of modern emphasis which would find all the answers within ourselves. Discover yourself, cultivate yourself, express yourself—these are the slogans. And for awhile this emphasis works. It gives you a shot in the arm of positive assertion. It turns you away from negativism. So far so good. But only "so far." Beyond that initial boost it cannot go. It exhausts its resources very quickly. So the aspirant in self-discovery, self-cultivation, and self-expression turns to another cult for another "shot." The soil of self was never intended to be the seed-bed of eternal values.

Even the Divine comes under the law of self-surrender. The central thing in the incarnation is: He "emptied himself" (Phil. 2:7 Moffatt). But this follows: "Therefore God raised him high" (v. 9). This is the law of life for God and man: lose your self and find it again. The law is inexorable. The seed, wrapped in itself, will die. But emptying itself into the earth, it lives in the growing plant.

A lady, very proper in appearance and outlook and who never talked to God except in the language of the King James Version, heard Christ saying to her while I was speaking: "This isn't for you. Come outside, I want to talk with you." She protested that she would have to climb over three people, one of them her husband, to get out, and they would consider her ill or unbalanced. The Voice persisted. So she went. "But suppose He wouldn't be there when I got out there?" He was there. "Let's take a walk," He said. They went up the hill to the chapel. There He seemed to impel her to pull out of her inner life resentments and self-centeredness and lay them before Him. She was ashamed and said limply: "What shall I do?" "Suppose we have a funeral," He replied. And they did. They buried that proud, resentful self, and when they walked down the hill, she was inwardly gay and free. A new birth had taken place. She was free to grow.

But we are called into the new life in many ways, by many means. It doesn't matter how we come, if we end up at His feet—changed.

O Christ, Thou didst empty Thyself. Help me to empty myself, especially of myself. Amen.

AFFIRMATION FOR THE DAY: My biggest question: Whose am I? Why, I'm God's!

Tells How Phone Co., Speeds Calls

How a revolutionary operator toll-dialing network speeds long distance calls across the nation was told by John L. Farley, Menominee, district commercial superintendent for the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., in a talk entitled "Speeding Speech" given before the Lions Club at the Lincoln Hotel Thursday evening.

Farley also spoke to Gladstone High School students Thursday afternoon.

Eventually it will be possible to dial a long distance number from home or business place without resorting to the usual long distance operator, listeners were told.

Automatic equipment will record the number of the phone from which the call is being made, the number to which the call is being made, the time consumed after the call is completed and even figure the cost of the call including the tax. The equipment will put the call over the most direct route; however, if the line is busy, the equipment will automatically find another toll line.
